misofilani. LIVERWORT.

To the Editors of the Nat. Int. Gentlemen, Since I first communicated to you the powers of the Liver wort in one case. I have had an opportunity of witnessing its extraordinary action in a number of others; and it has fully sustained its character in every case wherein I have administered or recommended it. Not very dis-tant from this place, I am personally acquainted with several individuals of both sexes, who have been entirely reto one particularly. A man not more han ten or twelve miles from here. was so far spent by profuse discharges of pus from his lungs, wasting night aweats, and hectic fevers, that his attendants and friends were several times making preparations towards in terring him.

In this hopeless condition he was, by way of dernier resort, almost forced to take the Liverwort, it promotly acted upon him as a fine tonic and alacted upon time as a men an econic and acterative—giving him a keen appetite, clearing out his vough, his night sweats, his hectic fever, and finally, every symptom of his complaint; and about three weeks since, when I last saw him, he was enjoying fine health and spirits. There is something very remarkable in the operation of this little plant; in every instance, it soon exerts a posi-tive influence over the cough and expectoration, quickly invigorates the stomach, and acts very sensibly upon the kidneys. or as a smart diuretic: in revolutionize the whole system. It have been familiar with every form and degree of pulmonary consumption for more than twenty was a second with the consumption of t and aggree of pulmining consumption for more than twenty years, yet have I never seein any act like this in one single case of it. The Liverwort has actually cured a case of hereditary phtitis is in a man of London county whose whole family nearly had died of consumption derived from the same cause. T. P. HEREFORD. Haymatket, Va. Nov. 30, 1827.

GRBAT SHOT .- We have been informed by a gentleman who witnessed the fact, that 8 M. Giddings, of Seneca Ralls, a few days ago, killed fourty-four ducks at one shot!
